Matthew is a student-at-law in the McLennan Ross Edmonton office.

Prior to completing his Juris Doctor at the University of Alberta in 2020, Matthew earned a Bachelor of Commerce, also from the University of Alberta.

While in law school, Matthew was actively involved with Student Legal Services where he assisted low-income individuals with civil and family-related legal questions.

Matthew also volunteered as Treasurer with Students for Wishes, a student group at the University of Alberta supporting the Make-a-Wish Foundation . In this role, he managed the group's finances and set financial goals. In addition to his volunteer work, Matthew's past work experience includes legal research for investment regulations at a large institutional investor, and preparing mortgage and related documents for residential real estate purchases and refinances.

Outside of law, Matthew has a keen interest in technology – professing a love for all things Apple. He also enjoys classical music and automotive design.
